PROOF OF PERFORMANCE

In short

2010 – Present

Due to the breadth and depth of our certifications, we are now among the market leaders in the IT sector.

To help you better understand our core strengths at a glance, we have summarized below the services and areas in which our key competencies currently lie.

1. MICROSOFT

Microsoft certifications cover all areas of modern information technology — from Office users and IT administrators to developers.

We specialize in the following Microsoft product portfolio and are certified accordingly in each area.

1.1 Microsoft Dynamics

The key advantage is transparency: all customer information is stored in one central place. The history and status of the customer relationship are clearly visible. In addition, efficient communication features make customer interaction easier and increase customer satisfaction.

A CRM system relieves employees in multiple ways: no duplicate data entry, no time-consuming research, and no inconsistent data.

This enables your team to respond better to customers' wishes and needs. The result: higher customer satisfaction and, in the long term, increasing revenue.

2. MAGENTO

When potential new customers inquire about a Magento shop, we repeatedly see that it isn't always easy for them to choose the right Magento agency. Of course, consulting, service, and costs matter — but the quality of the work can usually only be assessed after some time. At the latest, when the first update needs to be carried out or complex modules have to be developed, it becomes clear whether the developers truly understand Magento and use it correctly — or whether, as we often see, modules were simply purchased and technical customizations were implemented in a problematic way.

Certified developers ensure quality in Magento shop implementations
To support our customers in making the right decision, we have looked closely at ways to prove our know-how and the quality of our development work. In our experience, the developer certifications offered by Magento — such as Magento Certified Developer, Magento Certified Developer Plus, and Magento Certified Front End Developer — are among the most meaningful credentials in this field. Magento's official developer certification tests real, practical knowledge and helps ensure that a certified developer has strong expertise in the Magento system and works according to best-practice standards.

What Magento developer certification means for you as a customer
For you as a customer, certification means that we develop according to current Magento standards and have deep knowledge of many system details. This enables us to quickly identify the best approach for new requirements and implement it efficiently. The result is higher code quality, faster implementation times, and ultimately lower costs.

In the long term, higher quality pays off even more, because it reduces costs through lower ongoing effort — for example when updating the shop version.
